ARMY AND NAVY COMMANDERS URGE U. S. ADVANCE ON HUERTA

WASHINGTON, May 5.—General Funston is urging the War Department to order an advance on Mexico City. This was learned today from a reliable source. The naval commanders are seconding his suggestions with all the emphasis possible.

General Funston says the troops now in Vera Cruz are insufficient for an advance. The War Department is accordingly prepared to draw 10,000 men from the Texas border, and can make a start in ten hours' time. Five transports are available along the Gulf coast of Texas.

The naval commanders have shown impatience and a tendency to criticize the delay in getting the army to Vera Cruz. Original plans were that the troops would land there not more than one day after the navy occupied the port. But the troops were two days late. The transports which brought them from Galveston were antiquated ships, barely able to crawl through the water.

Rear Admiral Badger protested at that time; and now he has informed Secretary Daniels that delay at Vera Cruz in pushing on to Mexico City will cost thousands of American lives.

General Funston reports that General Maas has mined the railroad—right of way and trestles—and has built a series of barbed wire obstructions and breastworks.

By THOMAS P. COATES.

Special staff correspondent of the International News Service.

VERA CRUZ, May 5.—All the American outposts were strengthened today by Brigadier-General Frederick Funston because of the increase in numbers of Mexican Federals who are lying west and northwest of this city. Rear Admiral Badger was also asked to hold sailors in readiness for further operations on land.

The United States troops stationed on the outer lines report roving bands of Mexicans almost daily and it is supposed that these are scouting and foraging parties sent out by General Gustavo Maas. Although the Mexicans are short of food the frugal habits of the average Mexican makes a big food supply unnecessary.

Police Hunt Back Bay Girl Missing 5 Days

Helen Mudgett, sixteen years old, is missing from her home in the Back Bay and the police have been asked to search for her. She lived with her uncle, Frederick Crosby, No. 24 Astor street.

The girl's disappearance was a surprise and shock to her uncle and is completely shrouded in mystery. She left home Thursday evening early and no word has come from her since. None of her friends has seen her yet. Mr. Crosby can give no reason for the girl leaving home. She was contented and happy and never expressed any desire to leave home. She is described as a girl five feet seven inches in height and weighing 115 pounds. She is a brunette, she wears on leaving the house a black skirt, a black and white striped coat, brown velvet hat, black shoes and stockings.

Lilla Moulton, forty-five, a domestic employer in Needham, was taken suddenly ill while waiting for a train at the South Station, and died from cerebral hemorrhage on the way to the City Hospital.

GENERAL DURYEA, ASLEEP, IS SHOT TO DEATH BY HIS SON

NEW YORK, May 5.—While suffering from mental delusions, Chester Duryea, forty-three, shot and killed his father, General Hiram Duryea, millionaire starch manufacturer, early today, in their apartment home at No. 150 Eighth-street, Bay Ridge. The father was eighty-one.

The son was arraigned at noon and held without bail after which he was sent to the Raymond Street Jail to await further examination on Thursday. Louis Duryea was in court and told reporters that the Duryea family had considered Chester unsuitable for a number of years, but believed him harmless. Lately he had been brooding over a will he had brought against the Corn Products Company, charging infringement of a chemical process he had discovered.

Since 1909 Chester Duryea has been watched intermittently by nurses because of his mental peculiarities. The slaying of General Duryea was dramatic. He was asleep on an open porch on the second floor of the home when his son stole upon him. The son was armed with a high-powered rifle and a revolver of large caliber. The servants were suddenly aroused by hearing seven shots. The son had first fired several shots from the revolver into the body of his father and then sent two or three bullets from the rifle.

Frightened servants rushed to the sleeping porch and found Chester wild-eyed and threatening. They calmed him, took the weapon from him and led him to his bedroom while the police were on their way.

GEN. DURYEA IS KILLED BY EGG-THROWING SON

awaiting the arrival of police. Duryea made no resistance when placed under arrest.

"Why did you kill your father?" he was asked.

"Oh, I was justified," he declared, and began to talk incoherently. He would give no connected account of his actions and there was every indication he was mentally irresponsible.

General Duryea had retired from actual business some time ago. He was brevetted brigadier general of volunteers in the Union Army in March, 1865, for distinguished services at Vicksburg, Miss.

MARTIN DURYEA, JR.

His first business venture was as a partner in the firm of H. V. Duryea & Son, starch manufacturers. This was later merged with the Glen Cove Starch Manufacturing Company, which was absorbed in 1899 by the National Starch Company. He was for some time president of the National Cottonseed Oil Association and vice-president of the American Wood Working Machinery Company.

General Duryea's son, is noted as a wealthy society and club man. In 1898 the son married Miss Nina Laurie Smith of Boston, who four years later obtained a separation on the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment. She alleged that he had beaten her, called her names, and was flirtatious.

CHESTER DURYEA'S DIVORCED WIFE WAS BOSTON GIRL

Franklin Waldo Smith was a prominent man in Boston from the time of the Civil War up to twenty years ago. He lived for years with his family at the corner of Beacon and Fairfield streets in a house which he designed himself.

Mr. Smith was largely instrumental in the development of St. Augustine, Fla., as a winter resort. He designed and built there a wonderful home on the Moorish pattern of architecture, and for years made his winter residence there.

His daughter Nina, who married Chester Duryea, attended the Prince School when a girl, and was a classmate of Mrs. Oliver Ames (Mrs. West), Philip Whistland, Jr., Laura Henshaw (later Mrs. McAllister), and other well-known local residents.

BOSTON SHIP RUSHES TO AID LEAKY AFRE

HALIFAX, N. S., May 5.—Latest wireless messages fail to clear the mystery of the steamer burning at sea off Cape Race.

The steamer, after coming to stern, is drifting about 300 miles south of Sable Island and will probably be totally destroyed.

The Franconia, one of the steamers wireless to the rescue, is bound for Boston and was the nearest to the scene besides the Seydlitz. The Franconia may rescue the crew if they survived. The Olympic, 500 miles west, is en route to New York. Wireless messages from both these steamers are hourly expected.

The only news received here early today concerning the burning ship is a wireless message from the steamer Seydlitz. This says the Seydlitz reached the burning ship and sailed all around the burning hull. The captain of the Seydlitz was unable to make out the identity of the ship because of smoke. The supposition here is that the crew of the steamer perished in the ship's boats.

The Seydlitz sent out a call for help and received responses from steamers Sachem, Olympic, Franconia and Bremen, all proceeding to the rescue. The position of the burning vessel is given as 41° 37' north, 51° 17' west. No boats are yet reported near the burning ship since the Seydlitz.

"ON FIRE, HURRY UP!"

A wireless message from the Sable Island radio station to the Canadian Maritime Department said that the steamer picked up a part of a message passing between two steamers far out on the Atlantic.

The faint call said: "We are on fire. Hurry up!" Owing to unfavorable weather conditions, the message could not be heard and the names of the ships were not obtained. It seemed apparent that the steamer was wrecked in the marine Department from the steamer Seydlitz said the burning ship's foremast and funnel were gone. The bulk was high out of water.

From all appearances she must have been on fire for several days. The officers of the Seydlitz concluded.

HOPE FOR CREW'S SAFETY.

Other steamers likely to have been within the zone of the Seydlitz's wireless call are the west-bound Pennsylvania of the Hamburg-American Line, Hamburg for New York; Kronprinz Wilhelm of the North German Lloyd, Bremen for New York; the French liner Floride, from Havre for New York; and the Panama, Colon for New York for the American Line, New York for Plymouth; the German liner, Bremen for New York for the Hamburg-American Line, New York for Hamburg.

The weather on the Grand Banks was moderate and it was thought that any transatlantic voyage had been accomplished with few amount of difficulty or danger.

OLNEY SILENT ON REFUSAL OF RESEIGNATION

Whether Richard Olney will accept the appointment as Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank Board remained today a mystery.

Mr. Olney himself was asked to give some statement of his plans, he replied: "I have nothing to say," and stuck to it.

Dispatches from Washington quote President Wilson's secretary, Joseph P. Tumulty, as saying:

"Mr. Olney has decided that he cannot accept the place, we do not know if Mr. Olney has the offer under consideration and the President is not much interested in the matter."

NEARLY SIGHT.

Mr. Olney's friends, however, expect him to decline because of his age. He is almost eighty.

In declining the ambassadorship to Great Britain, some after President Wilson took office, the former secretary said as his reasons that his age, health, and business obligations forbade his accepting a public office that required so much time and effort.

Heading the Federal Reserve Board, Mr. Olney would be confronted with a toilsome task, his intimates point out.

The President was very anxious that Mr. Olney should accept, and Colonel House as representative with him in Boston, said that he had been in Washington hears that President Wilson had selected the men who together with the Secretary of the Treasury, would be given the Federal Reserve Board.

THE FULL BOARD.

The men to whom the President offered places are:

RICHARD OLNEY of Boston, lawyer, formerly Secretary of State.

MEMBERS.

ADOLPH CARPENTER MILLER of Boston, educator and economist, now assistant to the Secretary of the Interior.

PALL M. WARRINGTON of New York, banker, member of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co.

H. B. HARRING of Birmingham, Ala., banker, president of the First National Bank of Birmingham.

HARRY A. WHEELER of Chicago, banker, former president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and former president of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Should these men accept the Federal Reserve Board will be composed in addition of the following:

MEMBER EX-OFFICIO.

WILLIAM G. MACDONALD of New York, Secretary of the Treasury and chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

JOHN KELTON WILLIAMS of Richmond, Va., Controller of the Currency and member, ex-officio of the board.

It is stated in a dispatch from Chicago that Harry Wheeler does not expect to accept.

Olney Has Filled Many High Places; Refused Others

Here are some of the honors Richard Olney declined, and some he accepted in his extended public career:

REJECTED.

Governor of the Federal Reserve Board.

Supreme Court judgeship.

Ambassadorship to England offered by President Wilson.

ACCEPTED.

Representative, 1874.

Secretary of the United States, March 3, 1893, to June 10, 1895.

Secretary of State, June 10, 1895, to March 4, 1897.

Former Great Britain to come to terms on the long-drawn-out and started Youngman's question as Secretary of State under Cleveland, and settlement of the Hay-Pauncefote of $100,000,000 in bonds among his most brilliant diplomatic achievements.

While Attorney-General of the United States he brought the Debs case to a drastic conclusion.

Declined English Ambassadorship because of age, and the latest plan as leader of Federal Reserve Bank system, because work would be too onerous.

FITZGERALD SAYS FIN. COM. IS "PICAYUNISH"

Former Mayor Fitzgerald today characterized the Finance Commission's report on public concessions, and declared that there was a lot of fuss about "picayune" concessions, million-dollar contracts were going smoothly.

He took particular exception to the Commission's criticism of the swanboat concession in the Public Garden and said:

"I was the first Mayor who ever made a charge for the swanboat privileges on the pond in the Public Garden. When I took office the 'fag' family had held the concession for years, without charge or obligation of any kind."

"The business on the pond was at best a fluctuating one. The cold or rainy summer meant a loss, and the bright summer some profit. I am sure that a license fee or rental should be exacted from the swanboat people, as we exact from motion picture people and many others."

"That don't forget that the public mind will refuse to be diverted from the pending $1,000,000 contracts to a discussion of little concessions on the pond. The Commission has leveled its valuable time. Let them get busy on real problems and when they have, let them ask for them. That is the least they can do."

One Dead, Score Hurt

DETROIT, May 5.—A motorcar was killed, four passengers were fatally injured and twenty-two others were seriously injured in a collision of street cars at Philadelphia and Oakland avenues early today.

A northbound Fourteenth street car, crowded with workers on their way to automobile factories, jumped the track and crashed into a southbound car. Both cars were demolished and police worked for over an hour extricating the injured from the debris.

At Grace Hospital, where a score of injured were taken, it was said that four could not live. The car which jumped the track carried 102 passengers though its seating capacity was forty.

MARY CROWLEY, telephone girl who ended life in old Boylston street reservoir.

MYSTIFIED BY TELEPHONE GIRL'S SUICIDE

A suicide verdict wrote this to the last chapter of the life story of Mary Crowley today.

The girl, a telephone operator in the Brookline exchange and later in a private exchange on State street, died a fat iron to her coat and threw herself into the old Boylston street reservoir Sunday morning. At noon her body was found, and late yesterday she was identified.

She was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Crowley of No. 81 Boylston street, Brookline. She left home Sunday morning as usual for church. The last person to see her alive was Mrs. Michael Murphy, and it was Mrs. Murphy and Mrs. Emily Smith who identified the body.

The suicide is a mystery. Her relatives know no cause. Medical Examiner Harry M. Cutis rendered the decision.

RESCUE FROM MURDER RIVER RAIN STORM

William McDonald was the central figure today in a "thunder and lightning" rescue from drowning.

William is thirty-five and lives at 26 1/2 Dudley street, Roxbury. Early today, while the violent thunder storm was still rolling and cracking, he stood on the little bridge which spans Muddy river in the Foreway at Charlestown West. In some unaccountable way he fell in the river. He yelled above the thunder and lightning.

An automobile party came whirling about, taking all speeds forward to get out of the rain.

As the auto bounced on the little bridge one of William's drowning yells was heard. A thoughtful lightning flash revealed him fighting with all teeth against the boiling (?) current of Muddy river for about the third and last call.

The auto stopped, rescued William, and pulled him to the shore. The auto stopped, rescued William, and pulled him to the shore. The auto stopped, rescued William, and pulled him to the shore.

CABINET CHILDREN TO BE FLOWER GIRLS AT WILSON WEDDING

WASHINGTON, May 5.—The Cabinet children are to be flower bearers at the wedding Thursday evening in the Blue Room of the White House of Miss Eleanor Wilson, daughter of the President, to marry the Secretary of the Treasury.

Miss Numa McAdoo, the twelve-year-old daughter of the Secretary of the Treasury, and Miss Nancy Lane, daughter of Secretary Franklin K. Lane of the Interior, have been invited to attend the White House wedding in that capacity, and they are delighted beyond words. Also they are the center of all the other children in the departmental circles.

Miss Numa McAdoo, the "Cabinet beauty" as she is styled, is being subjected to considerable rivalry by her many friends at the prospect of standing such a youthful spectacle. One of Miss Numa's friends said: "You'll have to mind Eleanor, you know." "I should worry," said Miss Numa, "I should worry."

"TRYING ON" DAY.
Pre-nuptial festivities started at the White House today when guests began to arrive for the wedding. This was also "trying on" day at President Wilson's home. The array of towns and military creations secured by Miss Wilson were viewed by all the fair guests who have reached here.

Among the guests who arrived or are expected today are: Mrs. Francis Bowers Bayne, brother-in-law and sister of the bride; Joseph Wilson, brother of the President; Mrs. Wilson, and Mr. and Mrs. John A. Wilson, the former is the sister of the President's brother. Mrs. John A. Wilson has been an aide assistant to the bride in her shopping in New York during the last few weeks.

Invitations have been sent to Miss Alice Wilson, daughter of the John Wilson, but as she is in college she probably will not attend the ceremony. Distant relatives, who have received invitations are brigadiers General W. L. Marshall, U. S. A., and Mrs. Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. McAdoo, the son and daughter-in-law of the bridegroom.

OLD PASTOR TO OFFICIATE.
Miss Numa McAdoo, Miss Nellie McAdoo, William O. McAdoo, Jr., and Robert McAdoo, the other children, will be present.

Vice President and Mrs. Marshall with the members of the cabinet and their wives, will be among the guests. All of the military and naval aides detailed at the White House will be present in their official capacities, and will not be accompanied by their wives.

Mr. Rev. Spencer Beale of Princeton, pastor to the Wilson family since the bride was an infant, will arrive tomorrow to officiate at the ceremony. President Wilson will give away the bride, while Mrs. Margaret Wilson will act as maid of honor as was the case with Miss Eleanor Wilson when she was expected to participate in the bridal festivities with his son. Eleanor will be unable to appear. This is a disappointment to the bride and her friends.

Sixteen hats and fifteen new gowns were scheduled to arrive at the White House today from New York for the bride's approval.

The dressmaker, according to an intimate friend of Miss Wilson, who saw the fittings, is quite the most beautiful she ever beheld.

The favorite frock is a dinner gown of pink satin and silver lace. There are also a blue gown with white lace, a yellow gown and one of Watteau blue with white lace. The dress chosen by Miss Wilson's fiancé was chosen by her.

Mr. McAdoo is said to have "many things"—laces and chiffons—so Miss Wilson has carried out his suggestion by having lace and chiffon used in abundance. Most of the gowns are made with long sleeves, because they are "correct" and because the bride declares that "the Wilsons" are made to "conceal."

The going-away frock is of blue satin, made in three pieces. The color is corset (corset) blue, a charm.

That Foster Plug Prevents Slipping

make walking safe as well as comfortable—no more slipping on sidewalks, pavements or polished floors.

That is why they are worn regularly by thousands who have tried other kinds first.

Comfort Plus Safety

The extra quality of rubber gives a greater elasticity—you walk with a new buoyancy and lightness—and there is no hole in the foot to tread mud and dirt.

Here a pair on your shoe today. Get attached—back of toe—all dealers.

GIRL STABBED WITH HAT PIN MAY LOSE EYE

Eighteen-year-old Ada Hildebrand of No. 11 Myer street, Roslindale, may lose the sight of her right eye from a hat pin which she was in the crash in School street witnessing the parade.

Scores of women, headless of the law prohibiting obstructing hat pins were in the crash with pins protruding. In some cases several inches.

Miss Hildebrand's mother protested to a woman at the unusually long hat pin she was wearing, and was promptly told to mind her own affairs.

As the crash surged back and forth, Mrs. Hildebrand asked the woman indignantly: "A moment later, turning her head quickly, the long pin stabbed Miss Hildebrand, and she was carried to a drug store for treatment, and afterward hurried home.

A soldier from one of the forts tore the hat from the offending woman's head and smashed the hat pin in the street.

Aged Mother Will Ask Walsh to Set Jesse Pomeroy Free

Mrs. Ruth A. Pomeroy, the aged mother of Jesse Pomeroy, the most famous prisoner at the State prison in Charlestown, intends to make a personal appeal to Governor Walsh to set her son free before she dies.

"I can read hope in Governor Walsh's eyes," she said. "I believe that he is a fair-minded and generous man, and for that reason I long more than ever to have Jesse granted some measure of liberty."

It has been my wish during all the forty years that he has been in prison that some day I might see him free.

"If I cannot obtain a pardon for him before I die, I hope at least that he may be granted the freedom of the yard at certain hours, as the other prisoners are."

Circus License Despite Protests
FITCHBURGH, May 5.—Despite the protestations of merchants, who declare that a Saturday circus in this city will greatly injure their business, on today, Mayor Benjamin A. Cook issued a license to Barnum & Bailey's circus for June 27.

RICHARD TULLY, AUTHOR, TO WED ANITA BALDWIN

NEW YORK, May 5.—Richard Tully, the playwright, is engaged to marry Mrs. Hull McLaughlin, who was Anita Baldwin, daughter of the late J. J. Baldwin, known as "Lucky" Baldwin, according to a report received from Los Angeles, Cal.

Mr. Tully, who left New York for California about two months ago, and immediately after his arrival on the Pacific coast he was known as "Lucky" Tully, also a playwright, for divorces on the grounds of desertion, and obtained a preliminary decree.

The divorce will be made final and absolute before the end of May, and then he will be at liberty to marry again.

Mrs. Hull McLaughlin divorced her husband a short time ago, and it was not known until yesterday that she intended marrying again.

At the daughter of "Lucky" Baldwin she inherited a large share of his $100,000 estate.

Woman Owner of Biting Dog Fined

Mrs. Mary Salamone, No. 2 Hudson street, East Boston, was fined $10 today by Judge Barnes in the East Boston Court for keeping a "biting dog."

The offender, a big mongrel, sprang on Joseph Rono, aged eight, of No. 144 Paris street, and sank his teeth in the boy's chest. Joseph, a son of Mrs. Salamone's daughter, had the infuriated animal away before he could do further injury. Mrs. Salamone appealed.

Cobbler Fined $10 for Sunday Work

Parsonage Hillway of East Boston had Sam Tennessee, a cobbler, at No. 110 Paris street, in the East Boston Court today for mending shoes last Sunday. Judge Barnes fined Tennessee $10. He appealed.

PLACES DUTY FIRST Cardinal Gibbons' Advice

"CHARACTER WINS"
NEW YORK, May 5.—"What this country needs most of all," Cardinal Gibbons told the pupils of Blackmann's Newman School, "is young men who place conscience above expediency, service above popularity and duty above pleasure."

The Cardinal, who sails for Europe today, spoke with renewed emphasis: "Show me a young man with character and I'll bet you his destiny is bound to succeed. He may not attain great wealth, but he will find the end of life agreeable to his mind and beneficial to society."

Savannah Boat in Crash in River

Word came to Boston today that the Savannah liner Nacahoe, which had just left Savannah and was proceeding down the river on the first leg of a trip to Boston, ran the Dutch liner Callisto in the river, with heavy damage to the latter.

OFFER REWARD FOR CAPTURE OF ELOPING COUPLE

ROME, N. Y., May 3.—A reward will probably be offered today by the city father for the capture of James A. Elson of Boston, charged with having eloped with Miss Florence Wood, eighteen, an inmate of the state Custodial Asylum here. Her parents are wealthy residents of Horse Heads, Chenango county.

The case was reported to the local police by Dr. Charles Bernstein, superintendent of the asylum, on Sunday, after the asylum officials had made a futile attempt to find the missing inmate and her companion.

HAPPENINGS IN SOCIETY

HAL HENRIE SHAW AS BELLE AMONG BUDS
MISS DOROTHY JORDAN DANCES TO AID INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL FUND

One of the prettiest buds of the year, who is still enjoying the fragrance of the season which was the latest on record in Christine Converse Shaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gould Shaw, of "Boulder Farm," Oak Hill, Newton Centre. Miss Converse is as charming as she is pretty, and her gown has been among the handiwork worn by any of the girls of her set. She is fond of all outdoor sports, but has a strong liking for music. She will, without doubt, be among the first of the girls of her set to marry, as she has admirers by the score.

Quite the most important of all events on society's calendar for the evening at Symphony Hall.

Among those who have figured prominently in most of the past season and who will this week attend the North Shore estate are the Walter D. Denegres, whose estate, "Villa Crest," chester, has been made ready for their occupancy. The Denegres spent part of the winter in New Orleans, and the latter part in Washington, where the latest hospitality for Miss Elaine Denegres, a debutante, was given by Mrs. Lora Anderson.

The Denegres will remain at the Boston only a few days, and will return to Washington for a round of entertainments before coming back to New Manchester for the summer.

Among the interesting events tomorrow will be the entertainment for the North Shore Industrial School, in which so many of our young girls are taking part.

From 2 o'clock until 6 p.m. a feature will be the Eighteenth Annual Dinner, given by Miss Dorothy Jordan, who gives so generously of her time and money to the school.

Miss N. W. Crocker will give the illustrated address, and there will be Neapolitan songs by Signor Mallo, and a musical comedy.

There will be dainty appointed tables at which refreshments will be served. The money for the sale of seats will be devoted to the school's fund.

Christine Converse Shaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gould Shaw, 22, of Oak Hill, Newton Centre.

I. C. S. Students Earn While They Learn

Only one person in 50 is able to secure a high-school training; only one in 200 has a college education.

Both of these classes require special training. Their previous education has been general in its character. They must do something better than some one else to earn a salary that is worth while.

To these and to the rest—to the boys and men who must work and learn—the International Correspondence Schools offer a practical, specialized training that universities, colleges and trade schools cannot give.

If you are in the ambitious class—if you want to be more useful to yourself, your world and your work—mark the coupon and let us tell you how you can learn to earn more in the kind of work that you prefer.

CLEAN UP ALL BACK YARDS IN CITY CAMPAIGN

Following the opening of Clean-Up and Paint-Up Week, by removing all rubbish which might constitute a fire menace, today the campaign will be carried to the back yards. Household refuse is to be collected and put into barrels to be carted away. Cellars will be whitewashed, fences will be straightened, walks will be repaired and grass seed will be sown in bare lots.

In the expectation that thousands of pounds of rubbish will be collected during the week, the public works department has set aside twelve days in which to remove the refuse. Different sections of the city are set aside for each of the twelve days. The collection begins in West Roxbury, Norwood and Jamaica Plain.

WALSH URGES WORK.
The campaign has been given official sanction by Governor Walsh, who has issued a proclamation urging all citizens of the State to join in the effort to improve living and working conditions in Massachusetts. His request is as follows:

A national movement, to effect a thorough cleaning of cities and towns, is in progress, and the week of May 5 to 9 has been quite generally accepted throughout the nation for a general cleaning and tidying up under the title of Clean-Up and Paint-Up Week.

Better housekeeping, greater security from fire danger, and improved living conditions for all of our citizens can be brought about if all will observe Clean-Up and Paint-Up Week.

I, therefore, urge all men and women, young and old, to devote at least a few hours this week to cleaning and repairing their houses and places of business, inside and out, yards and streets included.

REWARDS FOR CHILDREN.
In Boston, Mrs. George A. O. Ernst, chairman of the local committee, is in charge of the work. She is assisted by Mrs. Alice E. Fowler, Mrs. Helen Marshall, Mrs. Edward Williamson, George Cherry, Robert T. Fowler and C. C. Thomas Sherman and George C. Morton.

Lots on the Fenway are being cleared under the supervision of Ellen J. Clutter of Simmons College. Realizing the great assistance the school children can be, circulars have been distributed at all the schools calling the children's attention to the work and asking their aid. Cards were also distributed, and these, signed by parents or teachers, testifying that the bearer has devoted four hours or more to helping clean up, can be returned to the nearest fire station and the child will be given a cut-out prize.

Prizes will be given to the children of youngsters armed with sharp knives. The Boston Police Department has an elaborate campaign planned among the children of the North End.

FEDERALS MASS BIG FORCE AT TAMPICO

TRAITOROUS BANDITS THREATEN MEXICAN CAPITAL WITH CARNIVAL OF BLOODSHED

Mexican Federal field gun company going into action against the rebel advance on the city of Tampico. The guns are modern rapid-firing machines and are of the same type as those with which General Maas expects to repulse the possible American attack on Mexico City. Typical Federal soldiers and two of the soldiers' sweethearts who follow the fortunes of the men, photographed at Tampico.

FUNSTON CONFIDENT OF MEXICAN REPULSE

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, May 5.—Victor General Funston sitting on a cracker box on the front end of a flat car. Close to his right hand lies Colonel Alvord, adjutant general, and Captain U. S. Grant. At his other hand sits Lieutenant Ball, the general's aide, and Captain MacArthur, son of General MacArthur. At the rear of the car are several a score of newspaper correspondents.

That is the manner in which General Funston went to the front today. He wanted to make a personal inspection of the Tular water works, which the Mexicans threatened to seize Saturday.

A blustering gun boat down on the unprotected car.

Major Russell, who blantly refused to surrender, met General Funston at the arrival of the train at El Tejar.

He seemed to realize his lost opportunity to start a revolution. If just came out here to look over the place," said General Funston.

Major Russell led the general to the supposed position of the Mexicans. The major told the story of the battle. The Mexican officer made his demand in a most insolent manner. He did not even demand. He made him.

General Funston proceeded to inspect the position. He saw that the three-inch guns were capable of hurling shrapnel 7,000 yards. This was satisfactory. After further discussing the situation with Major Russell, the general returned the train and returned to Vera Cruz. On the way he thought he had decisively won the war.

that Huerta salute the United States flag in reparation for the insult.

General Carranza and his constitutionalists were eliminated from all negotiations for the present by the South American mediators and the envoys went into session with the determination also to postpone until later consideration of the general issue between Mexico and the Washington government. This new development in the situation has ended, diplomats here generally believe, the chance of solving the entire Mexican question at this time as the mediators shortly have told Carranza they will have nothing to do with him as long as he declines to enter into an armistice with the Huerta forces.

Suggestions that Carranza might change his attitude after he takes Del Rio's prospects, no comment from Constitutional representatives here and they declined to discuss the elimination of their chief from the negotiations.

While the mediators revealed no disposition of their opinion because of the stand of Carranza, the military aspect of the situation again was brought to the front with increasing prominence by General Funston's reports of Mexican movements before the American outposts at Vera Cruz.

It is realized here that an outbreak will be likely to come at any time that will set the flames which will put an end to all peace talk. Preparations to send reinforcements to Funston are being made secretly, although the mediators reported that they were moving steadily. They were pleased with the selection of Huerta of men to represent him before the envoys and freely expressed their satisfaction.

It was pointed out that the appointment of General Huerta brings a big man into the proceedings. He is one of Huerta's closest advisers, and his views are said to have great weight with the dictator. There is no intention on the part of the mediators to take the delegates into general council with them, it was stated today. The mediators will continue in complete charge of the plans of settlement and consult the delegates merely as advisers.

ACTIVITY INDICATES LIGHT BY HUERTA

By HARRY H. DUNN.

Special Staff Correspondent of the International News Service.

VERA CRUZ, May 5.—Activity at the French consulate and reiterated rumors that President Huerta would resign and seek refuge on the cruiser Conde under the French flag caused a belief here today that important developments are impending at Mexico City. This belief was strengthened by the sudden departure from the capital of Lieutenant Laporte of the Conde.

PROFESS IGNORANCE OF PLAN.

The only explanation given at the consulate of the French officer's visit was that he was the "bearer of official communications to the French Minister, M. Lefevre."

Consul Brouzet professed to be in ignorance of any plan on the part of Huerta to abdicate.

"I am unable to confirm or deny the report that Huerta is coming to Vera Cruz," said the Consul. "Personally, I am unable to believe that Huerta will resign, but there is no knowing what he will do."

There is a strong impression at the other consulates that a prominent Mexican will soon arrive here from the capital. One rumor in regard to this is that Porfirio Diaz, the foreign minister forced out by Huerta, is the man who will seek refuge on the Conde. This report, like that in regard to Huerta, who lacks any official confirmation.

Whatever Huerta's present position there is no doubt that the odds are steadily shifting round the dictator. The action of General Emiliano Zapata in proposing to accept Huerta's offer of an alliance and then turning against the dictator after receiving arms and ammunition from the government is expected to hasten the end.

Finally, a proclamation that Huerta and Minister of War Banquhart have been sentenced to death as traitors shows that no mercy will be granted to the dictator's followers and a carnival of bloodshed will undoubtedly occur in the capital if Zapata captures it.

The Navy Daniels received a confidential dispatch from Rear Admiral Mayo, stating that the American sailors and marines there could capture Tampico within three hours. There had been considerable anxiety here over reported threats by the Mexicans that they would raise Tampico at the first sign of an American attack.

In his report Admiral Mayo said that there are now fourteen vessels of different types in the roadstead half an hour's sail from the city port. The Birmingham, a fast cruiser, and the cruiser Los Angeles, carry heavy armament, which Admiral Mayo says could cover an American attack.

GEN. CARRANZA NOW PUTS RESPONSIBILITY ON THE MEDIATORS

By JOHN W. ROBERTS.

Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

CHIHUAHUA, May 5.—Responsibility for the failure of the Constitutionalists to participate in the mediation efforts of the Latin-American envoys at Washington was shifted by General Carranza today upon the representatives of Argentina, Brazil and Chile. He notified his representatives at Washington that he would not participate and in explanation his action declared that if he would not agree to an armistice there was no need of the appointing any official agents to confer with the mediators.

In his message the Constitutionalists said that he had accepted the offer of the mediators as final, that he would not consent to an armistice and would have no representatives in future negotiations.

MEDIATORS FAIL TO STOP HOSTILITIES

By W. N. TAFT.

Staff Correspondent of the International News Service at the White House.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—The Latin-American mediators efforts to bring about peace in Mexico have failed to accomplish their chief aim—the hope of securing a cessation of hostilities in the Southern republic and the establishing of a firm government founded on a legal election. Whether they will accomplish their secondary aim, a settlement of the issues between Huerta and the United States, is problematical.

Though Huerta has appointed his envoys to place his cause before the mediators, the United States has not done so and there was no indication today that it would act immediately.

It is unlikely that any action will be taken by the American government before the arrival here of Nelson Crousephamer, who represented the United States at the Mexican capital after the retirement of Ambassador H. L. Wilson.

Crousephamer today had tarried down to the arrest of American natives at Tampico and the demand

ORIGINALITY

There are a good many noticeable features about Oakland cars. But nothing is freakish. It is our aim to build beautiful cars but not gaudy ones. We strive for symmetry.

The same standard is used in the chassis, in which there are found originalities, but nothing that will prove unworthy.

We do not come at anything. Gaudiness had cost millions to manufacturers and disappointment to owners.

The men who build Oakland cars understand thoroughly motor car values and are well grounded in motor car construction. We employ men who have had experience in the automobile centres of the old world as well as in the United States.

Our men watch the trend in automobile design and are quick to discern whether an idea is a good one or a bad one.

If it is a good one, it goes in the Oakland car, but if it is an idea popular for the time, but we know is incorrect in principle, it does not go in.

CHAPTER V.

Thrown on His Own Resources.

WHEN Madame Barthelemy returned from her errand she hurried to find Reni to tell him again how glad she was that she had changed his mind and that he was to remain with them until he was old enough to take care of himself. But no Reni came in answer to her call. Barthelemy himself came out of the house after awhile and told her gruffly that she might as well save her breath, for Reni had gone.

"What do you mean?" she said going up to him and taking him by the arm.

"And for answer he drew out the newly drawn up contract for her to read. She hardly took in the meaning of the thing at first, but as she read she became more and more alarmed. She felt limp as she read the words, and she felt as if she were being strangled.

But Reni was not faring so badly as she had seemed to be. After the first disappointment had blown over, he was as good as his word. He had taken up his abode with the Barthelemys, and he was as good as his word.

And for answer he drew out the newly drawn up contract for her to read. She hardly took in the meaning of the thing at first, but as she read she became more and more alarmed. She felt limp as she read the words, and she felt as if she were being strangled.

A Peril of the Sea

Talk and Popularity

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

THE only game that will never go out of fashion is the gentle art of conversation. As long as we humans have tongues and can wag them, good talkers will charm and win friends and admirers. And yet the average girl will spend money, energy and thought in making herself a delight to the eye, and ignoring the ear and the mind and heart, will wonder why that "plain little Jones girl" is twice as popular as she.

Conversation does not come by the grace of Heaven any more than dancing comes by nature. If you have a natural gift for either you must still work to develop your gifts and to learn to use them according to the laws of the world. Taking pains will teach you the new moves in dancing and the old laws of talking.

The girl who talks well is a belle by all foregone conclusions. Men will be drawn to her, and she will be cleverly drawn out, and, above all, to be offered a constant stream of "something new."

The obvious way to talk well is simply to practice talking. But there are several rules in the game that make it exciting and interesting. A steady stream of pleasant surprises, and to learn to be a conversationalist will cost you no cent of your hard-earned salary. It will require only alertness and interest and pleasant effort on your part, and it will repay you with popularity, a large circle of friends and many invitations and suggestions to other girls can bring you.

TO HOLD FRIENDS If you are pretty, the gentle art of conversation will hold the friends you good looks attracts. If you are plain, your cleverness at amusing will hold them. If you are not a beauty, you will win them by being a good conversationalist. If you are a beauty, you will win them by being a good conversationalist.

And now, if you are conversant with the most exciting and profitable game in the world, here are a few of its rules:

Talk to all sorts of people. Learn to adapt yourself to moods and to character and to persons of all ages.

Make it your business to say what you intend to convey so that you can be easily and quickly understood by the person you address, whether that person is clever or stupid. You can not put things too clearly or too simply.

Find out each person you meet and talk about and meet him on his own ground. And then you can talk about something. If he is only a stupid log of wood, he will tell you about himself, and he will not only give you good practice, but will afford a study of what conversation you will do well to avoid in order not to be one of the bore.

Reading works while books in which there is worth while conversation and studying good plays will give you an education in what to say and how to say it.

MAKE A CONFESSION Don't try to talk about what you do not understand. But if you are an honest confession of your ignorance.

Don't try to talk about what you do not understand. But if you are an honest confession of your ignorance. Don't try to talk about what you do not understand. But if you are an honest confession of your ignorance.

Don't try to talk about what you do not understand. But if you are an honest confession of your ignorance. Don't try to talk about what you do not understand. But if you are an honest confession of your ignorance.

Don't try to talk about what you do not understand. But if you are an honest confession of your ignorance. Don't try to talk about what you do not understand. But if you are an honest confession of your ignorance.

Here Is Some Bromide Morality

If It Is Below YOUR Intellect, Hand It to Some Little Boy. It May Do Him Good

When you look at the picture on this page you will probably say, "Oh, I know all that." And you will add, "I know about temptation, how it begins, and how it ends. I also know the old rhyme about 'vice is a monster of such hideous mien as to be hated, needs but to be seen.' I do not need pictures like this of a little temptation eating out of a man's hand, then growing to be a lion standing on the man's stomach."

Well, if YOU don't need the lesson taught in this picture, hand the picture to somebody that does need it. Every fact is old.

Every morality is "a bromide" in the language of our day. The Ten Commandments are pretty old; some people think them worn out. Yet, about all the law in the world is in those Ten Commandments.

They tell us that we must mind our own business, and not do certain things that we have no right to do.

This picture shows how men begin doing the things that they have no right to do, and how they finally find that the small temptation, so trifling and amusing, has grown to be the large-sized monster that makes life not worth while.

One curse of life is the fact that all the stupid, criminal, vicious things that men do seem so gentle, simple and inoffensive in the beginning.

Say that to the little boy to whom you show this picture. Temptation starts out as a little lion cub, very gentle, fuzzy, harmless and pleasing.

You say, "What a cunning little fellow." A little later, that same cunning little fellow has both of his front feet planted on your chest, he has grown to be ten times as big as you are—and is the boss from then on.

If this picture has no meaning for YOU, it has a meaning for ten thousand men in ten thousand convict cells. Every one of them knew the beginning, the little temptation, the wrong-doing that "was to end there and go no farther."

The man in the picture made ONE mistake. When he met first that little temptation so soft, fluffy, friendly and playful, he should have knocked it on the head, and ended it for all time.

If he had done that, he wouldn't be lying on his back, with the full grown monster on top of him.

Say that to the little boy, and say it to yourself also, for YOU may need this picture without knowing it.

An Endowment for Treason

The members of the Senate Committee on Inter-oceanic Canals, who subjected Dr. James Brown Scott, secretary of the Carnegie Peace Foundation, to a "severe grilling," went not one step beyond the proprieties of the occasion.

An institution endowed with $100,000,000, possessing an annual income of $5,000,000 and devoted to awakening and directing public sentiment on any question of any national policy, may conceivably become a menace to the nation.

Peace is the ideal situation, but grim need sometimes compels individuals and nations to desert the ideal for the practical.

Peace in 1776 would have left us today a province of Great Britain—Mr. Carnegie's ideal, but not that of the American people.

Peace in 1845 would have left Texas, Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma and California under the domination of Mexico.

Peace in 1898 would have left Cuba still prostrate under the brutal rule of Spain. War gave her a self-respecting place in the family of nations.

There are times when an appeal to arms is needed. At such a time an organized propaganda lavishly supplied with funds and using every device of agitation, organization and publicity to embarrass the government is simply a hotbed of treason. There are moments when an issue arising between two nations—falling far short of war—involves national rights and national honor. A peace-loving private organization using its funds to embarrass the home government in such a controversy and urging surrender to the foreign contestant is in such case as intolerable a nuisance as a snapping, snarling cur, and should get treatment accordingly.

A thorough investigation into the methods of this Carnegie Endowment is demanded. It is emphatically a meddling nuisance, and it may be a dangerous national menace.

More Truth Than Poetry

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

It Was Not, Emphatically, Whoever in South America first thought of mutilation, it certainly was not Theodore Roosevelt.

The Real Difficulty!

It is going to be hard to persuade the mothers and fathers of the sailors and marines killed at Vera Cruz that there is anything to meditate.

It's Livelier Now.

John Lind says he found it tiresome in Mexico. He might have found it otherwise if he had stayed a little longer.

Up to the Minute.

"In its first aggressive step in Mexico, the Administration acted with great promptness."—New York Times.

But as a society reporter wrote last January—"This is a One-Step Administration."

Our Friends, the Mexican People! We are at war only with Huerta. The mob of Ensenada, Lower California, which attacked the American residents, and the mob in the City of Mexico which attacked the American Club and hotel, are merely trying to demonstrate their friendship.

Take Your Choice.

According to Mr. Wilson's definition, this isn't war. According to General Sherman's it is.

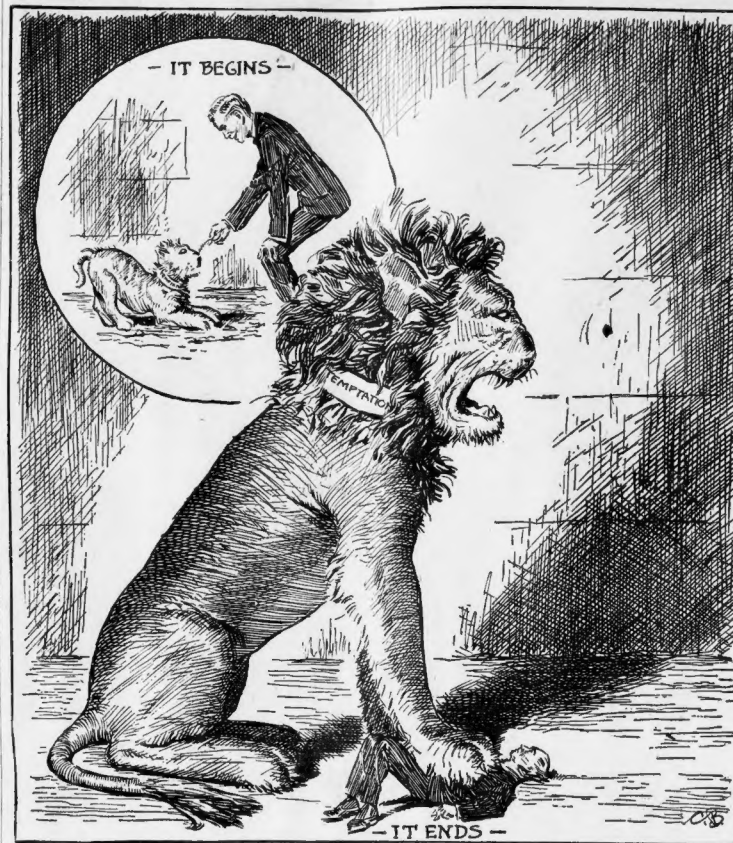

Possibly.

Sir: If we accept that South American mediation offer wouldn't it be like enjoying a foreigner's referee in a battle between Jack Johnson and a White Hope?

Over and Under.

The Commonsense Party and Its Platform

By ELBERT HUBBARD

HERE is the outline of a new party. The truths it expresses are the oldest known to man.

It is at once political, social, economic, ethical, commercial and religious.

Women and children are eligible and welcome as men. So one is too old and none too young to join. Your past record will not count against you, unless you are too hateful of it.

There are no rites of initiation—no Anapras to ride—and you can never be put out of the party unless you hand in your resignation to your cosmic self.

Here is the basis of the Commonsense Party: Cherfulness, Courtesy, Kindness, Industry, Health, Peace, Economy.

There are two ways to live—just two—one way right and one wrong. If your life benefits humanity you are on the right track; but if you are a bother, a worry, a nuisance and a burden to the world you are on the wrong route and will soon be "up against it."

Everybody and everything will have it in for you, because you will have it in for yourself. Then, when you begin to retire, your bodily health will wane, and inertia and weakness will seize you and lead you.

Weakness is the only slavery. Freedom is the supreme good—freedom from self-imposed limitations.

It is the law of nature that the world helps every person who is trying to help himself. If you want to be well and strong and to keep busy, Nature is on your side if you prove that you are on hers. We should all be in partnership with Nature.

If you are sincerely trying to do your share of the necessary work of the world, Nature will reward you in honor, money and power. Keep good-natured. Do not look for alms or for a handout. Get the job you want to take the one that you can get. The only way to get a big place is to show that you are not ashamed to fill a little one.

If you are sincerely trying to do your share of the necessary work of the world, Nature will reward you in honor, money and power. Keep good-natured. Do not look for alms or for a handout. Get the job you want to take the one that you can get. The only way to get a big place is to show that you are not ashamed to fill a little one.

New "Kink" on Woman Suffrage

By EDWIN MARKHAM

WILLIAM H. ALLEN (Director Bureau of Municipal Research and Training School for Public Service), in his useful book, "Women's Part in Government" (whether she votes or not), opens up a wide field of service for all workers for betterment of home, city and nation. He has this to say in his preliminary survey of woman's activity in human affairs:

"The readiness of the new woman to get into her work or her talk. 'Novels, like history and biography, seem with evidence that in all times woman's sphere has included man and world events outside her home. Pericles, Caesar, Washington, Jefferson, Shakespeare, the Great, Napoleon and Shakespeare had wives for whom friends who could talk knowingly about the world's ways."

"The chief difference between the new woman and her predecessors is that the new woman finds it harder to be sure of eternal truths without knowing more mundane facts than did her ancient predecessors. Even for making small talk, eternal truths are somewhat threadbare, and need concrete, up-to-date illustrations."

"But whether the majority of women want to vote is not the question which demands answer, however important it may be in theory. The handful of women who are active in demanding the ballot as a matter of abstract right and public expediency are so managing the handful of men who are responsible for party decisions that the vote will soon be given to women."

"It is not worth while discussing now what fraction of women want to vote. Our task is as rapidly as possible to make all women capable of using the vote when they get it."

"Roman ladies from time to time organized to obtain legislation. Mary and Martha were wise awake sympathizers with the apostles and with the world awakening which they furthered. Good Queen Anne and stern Catherine of Russia, like the women of the Renaissance, were shapers and leaders of public thought."

"It is not the new woman who is new, but the world in which she lives and about which she reads, hears, asks questions, thinks, talks and writes. Obedience has infinitely more competitors now and Dandies more infinitely more sources of interesting narrative."

The advanced woman of other days concealed her interest behind a pretense of ignorance or went into a convent. To find scope for organization, diplomacy and leadership it is no longer necessary to become an abbess. Brilliant indifference is beginning to give place to skilled directness in woman's ways as well as in international diplomacy."

Well Deserved Honors for Corporal Daniel A. Haggerty

His Native State and His Home City Will Pay Tribute to the Bravery of the First American to Be Killed in the Open Clash of Arms at Vera Cruz. He Lost His Life While Trying to Defend Three Women Refugees During the First Day's Fighting. He Was Shot Down for Following the Flag of His Country

CORPORAL DANIEL ALOYSIUS HAGGERTY, UNITED STATES MARINE, KILLED AT VERA CRUZ

The city of Cambridge does well to make preparations on an elaborate scale for the funeral of Corporal Daniel Aloysius Haggerty, Company 8, Second Regiment, Advance Brigade.

This brave young marine was attached to the battleship Utah. He died in the performance of his duty at the early age of thirty-six. He was born in Brookfield, Mass.; educated at the Sacred Heart Parochial School at Brookfield, and his home was in Cambridge, at No. 16 Harding street.

The funeral will take place probably on Tuesday, May 12. Corporal Haggerty's body, with sixteen others, is being brought to New York in the armored cruiser Montana. It is due in New York next Saturday. The funeral ceremonies will probably take place at Cambridge Cemetery.

Brave young Haggerty bore an enviable reputation. He first enlisted in 1906, was honorably discharged in 1910, and during this same year re-enlisted. He had seen service in Nicaragua and Panama.

Fred A. Bartholemey, at one time a "bunkie" of Haggerty, re-enlisted to avenge his death. Another good and brave man! Let us hope that he will not be shot down!

The Massachusetts Legislature passed a splendid resolve in honor of the dead corporal. Congressman Dietrich eulogized him in the House of Representatives because he was a brave, unselfish, devoted, loyal American citizen, following his flag and defending unprotected women.

He should have a great public funeral, for his life and death are typical of the willingness of brave young Americans to die for the right and give the last full proof of patriotism.

My Life Be a Song

By LILIAN LAUFERTY

SOUND floats about me—haunts me,
And flutters in my heart.
The liquid blue of the distant sky
Sends melody afloat:
The gleam of the sun, the scent of a flower
Makes golden rhythms throng.
Shall my words but sing? Nay—O! grant me this:
My life be like a song.
